1: Æthelmearc, Kingdom of - New Badge

OSCAR finds the name registered exactly as it appears in January of 1998, via Æthelmearc.

[Fieldless] On an open scroll gules, two quill pens in saltire argent

This badge is for the Kingdom Minister of Lists

Herald of Record: Garnet

2: Amalie Jäger von Holstein - New Name & New Device

Argent, a horse rampant and on a chief rayonny enarched purple, two bears sejant erect regardant argent

Submitter desires a feminine name.

No major changes.

Amalie - Talan Gwynek (Brian Scott) Medieval German Given Names from Silesia

Women's Names <<http://www.s-gabriel.org/names/talan/bahlow/bahlowFem.html>>, cites one occasion of this name from 1349.

Jäger von Holstein is registered previously by her mundane father, Andreas Jäger von Holstein, registered September 2007.

Jäger - Brechenmacher, vol. I (A-J), p. 764, s.n. Jäger, lists <Jäger>, and states that the more frequent older spelling is <Jeger>. Dated to 1280 as <Bercht. Dictus Jäger>.

Also, Saint Gabriel Report #2436 [<http://www.s-gabriel.org/2436>] states:

<Jaeger> or <Ja"ger> "hunter" is a spelling generally found later than your period. The more typical spelling in the 14th century is <Jeger>; we find that form recorded in Bohemia 1411 and in other parts of southern Germany in the late 13th and 14th centuries [4, 5]. However, we have also found an example of <Ja"ger> in Baden in southwestern Germany in 1280, and <Ja"germeister> in Austria in 1365 [6]. In either spelling the name was pronounced roughly YEH-gehr.

Holstein - Brechenmacher, vol. I (A-J), p. 734, s.n. Holstein, lists Emmely Holsteinin zu Freiburg 1382. Here, the <-in> suffix is added to make the locative feminine. Also, Johann Siebmacher's Wappenbuch von 1605, plate 7, shows the arms of the Duchy of Holstein with the submitted spelling as the caption.

Herald of Record: Almeric de Miraval

3: Boi Quickfoot - Resub Device

OSCAR finds the name on the Æthelmearc LoI of March 23, 2009 as submitted.

Argent, in pale two rapiers inverted in saltire and a lion rampant, a bordure sable platy

His original device submission, Argent, in pale two rapiers inverted in saltire and a lion rampant, a bordure sable, was returned for conflict with Moshe Pantera del Fuego Negro, Argent, a natural panther salient incensed of flame all within a bordure sable. The present submission is clear by the addition of the rapiers and the seme of plates on the bordure.

Herald of Record: Garnet

4: Brada Æthelward - Resub Name

Submitter desires a masculine name.

No major changes.

Client requests authenticity for Anglo-Saxon, 10th-11th century.

His original name submission, Brada Boda Aethelward, was returned by Laurel in June, 2009. At that time, Laurel said:

This is being returned for using both an occupational and a patronymic byname in an Old English name. No examples were provided, and none were found by the commenters, of Old English names using both an occupational byname and a patronymic at the same time. There are few examples of Old English names using more than one byname, but all of the examples found by the commenters were of the pattern <occupational> + <locative>. Lacking examples of Old English names which use both an occupational byname and a patronymic byname at the same time, this construction is not registerable in Old English.

This resubmission fixes that problem by dropping one element.

Brada - The Prosopography of Anglo-Saxon England (PASE) [<http://www.pase.ac.uk/>] counts three individuals with this given name, including a priest at Clofesho who bore witness to charters in 824 and 825.

Æthelward - The Prosopography of Anglo-Saxon England (PASE) [<http://www.pase.ac.uk/>] counts 50 individuals under the header name Æthelward including a priest ("Æthelward 4") who witnessed charters in 863 and 867 using the spellings Eðelweard and Æðelward respectively. "Æthelward 5" is the fifth-born surviving child of Alfred the Great and his name is recorded 26 times under various spellings. Based on these variants, the submitted spelling seems quite plausible:

AEþELWERDUS (1)

Aeþelweard (1)

Aeðelwaerd (1)

Aeðelweard (1)

Aþelweard (1)

Ethelward (1)

Ethelwardus (1)

Eðelweard (1)

Æthelweard (1)

Æþelweard (8)

Æþelwerd (1)

Æþelweard (7)

Æþelwerd (1)

Mari Elspeth nic Bryan, Period Name Construction v. 2.1 gives examples of Anglo-Saxon byname construction. Under Patronymic byname, the first construction is <Old English given name><Old English father's given name> and cites Tengvik, Old English Bynames (Uppsala: Almqvist & Wiksells Boktryckeri-A.-B., 1938), p. 225 as dating Osgot Sveyn to c. 1045.

Herald of Record: Garnet

5: Folan Wayfarer - Resub Badge

OSCAR is unable to find the name, either registered or submitted.

Per chevron inverted azure and gules, an increscent, a decrescent and a wolf ululant argent

Name registered, July, 2009. His original device submission, the same as the present was returned (July 2009) for re-drawing by Laurel who ruled that:

This is returned because it is not blazonable. Blazoned on the LoI as having a _Per chevron_ line of division, that from the sides of the field, not the base corners. It is closest to being a pile inverted, which would be narrower and issue entirely from the base of the field

The present re-drawing should correct for this problem.

Herald of Record: Garnet

would have the line issuing

6: Gaius Sergius Vettius - Resub Device

OSCAR is unable to find the name, either registered or submitted.

Per pale gules and argent, three fish hooks and in chief a lucy naiant counterchanged

Name registered, July, 2009. His original device submission, the same as the present, was returned (July 2009) for re-drawing by Laurel who ruled that:

This device is returned for blurring the distinction between primary and secondary charges. The way the submitted emblazon is drawn, it is not possible to determine whether this is a primary charge and three secondary charges, three primaries and a secondary charge, or four co primary charges, and so must be returned.

The current re-drawing clearly presents the fish hooks as the primary charge group and the lucy as a secondary charge.

Herald of Record: Garnet

7: Hauoc the Wild - New Device

OSCAR finds the name registered exactly as it appears in February of 2000, via Æthelmearc.

Per chevron gules and sable, an eagle displayed erminois within a bordure embattled Or

Name registered, February,2000.

His original device submission, Per chevron gules and sable, an eagle displayed within a bordure Or, was returned at Kingdom in June, 2007, for conflict with Athelwulf the Ancient of the Dry Lands, Gules, a duck displayed, head affronty, within a bordure Or, and Adenwald the Hazardous, Per chevron azure and plumetty azure and argent, a hawk displayed, wings inverted, all within a bordure Or. This resubmission attempts to clear these by changing the tincture of the eagle.

Herald of Record: Almeric de Miraval

8: Huon Damebrigge - New Name Change & New Device Change

Per saltire Or and vert, on a pale cotised sable a crecent and overall an owl rising wings displayed and inverted argent

Old Item: Ian Damebrigge of Wychwood, to be released.

Old Item: Per saltire argent and Or, on a pale endorsed sable in chief a crescent Or, to be released.

Submitter desires a masculine name.

No major changes.

Client requests authenticity for England, 13th-14th century.

It is to replace the name, Ian Damebrigge of Wychewood

Huon - Tangwystal verch Morgant Glasvyrn (Heather Rose Jones), Given Names from Brittany, 1384-1600 <<http://heraldry.sca.org/laurel/names/latebreton.html>>, cites Huon to the mid 16th century.

Damebrigge - registered as the submitter's byname in 1992. At that time, Laurel said:

Damebrigge seems to be formed analogously to Knightsbridge (Knichtebrugg, 1270). Ekwall cites a number of English place names using titles, including Earlstone (Erlestone, 1167), Thenford (Theyniford, Northumbria Survey), and Queensborough (Queneburgh, 1376).

This submission was pended from AE 124. His old device, Per saltire argent and Or, on a pale endorsed sable in chief a crescent Or (Registered December of 1992, via the East) will be released.

Herald of Record: Garnet

9: Huon Damebrigge - New Badge Change

OSCAR is unable to find the name, either registered or submitted.

[Fieldless] On the bowl of a spoon inverted argent a blackletter miniscule h sable

Old Item: (Fieldless) On the bowl of a spoon argent a blackletter miniscule h sable, to be released.

This badge was pended from AE 124. This will replace his previous badge, (Fieldless) On the bowl of a spoon argent a blackletter miniscule h sable which was registered in January of 2004 via Aethelmearc. It will be released.

Herald of Record: Garnet

10: Isabel de Fleur - New Name & New Device

Azure, on a pile argent a fleur-de-lis azure.

Submitter desires a feminine name.

No major changes.

Language (French) most important.

Culture (French) most important.

Isabel - Aryanhwy merch Catmael, "French Names from Paris, 1421, 1423, & 1438"

<http://heraldry.sca.org/names/french/paris1423.html>

counts one occurrence of this feminine name.

de Fleur - Aryanhwy merch Catmael, "French Surnames Names from Paris, 1421, 1423, & 1438"

<http://heraldry.sca.org/names/french/paris1423surnames.html> counts one occurrence of this surname.

11: Padraig na Féasóige Ua Céileachair - Resub Name

Submitter desires a masculine name.
Culture (Irish Gaelic) most important.

His original name submission, Padraig na Ua Céileachair, was returned (July 2009) for conflict with Padraig O'Ceallachain.

Padraig - OCM, p. 152, give Pádraig as the modern form, and states that it is a borrowing of the Latin Patricius meaning "a patrician". They further state that, "The early Irish, out of respect for St Patrick, did not use the name itself but such forms as Gilla Pátraic 'servant of St Patrick' and Máel Pátraic 'devotee of St Patrick'. They further state, "When used by the Anglo-Normans it was rendered Pádraigín by the Irish.

Black, p. 651, s.n. Patrick, gives Pádraig as the Irish Gaelic, and Patricc as the Old Irish.

"Fragmentary Annals of Ireland: Annal FA 260" [www.ucc.ie/celt/online/G100017/text014.html] dates Padraicc to 859 in the phrase comarba Padraicc, which we understand to mean "heir of Patrick", or similar.

Mari Elspeth nic Bryan, "Index of Names in Irish Annals: Pádraigín" [www.medievalscotland.org/kmo/AnnalsIndex/Masculine/Padraigin.shtml] gives Pádraigín as the normalized Early Modern Irish Gaelic (c1200-c1700) nominative and genitive forms and counts 6 individuals of the name (in various spelling variants) in the years 1309 to 1601, including Patraigin in the 14th c. Mari Elspeth nic Bryan, "Index of Names in Irish Annals: Máel Pátraic" [<http://www.medievalscotland.org/kmo/AnnalsIndex/Masculine/MaelPatraic.shtml>] gives Máel Pátraic as the normalized Middle Irish Gaelic (c900-c1200) nominative form and Maol Phádraig as the Early Modern Irish Gaelic (c1200-c1700) nominative form, and counts 35 individuals of the name (in various spelling variants) in the years 845-1312.

The authenticity of Padraig was asserted in precedent as recently as December 2005:

Submitted as Padraig MacNaughton, the submitter requested authenticity for Irish language/culture. As submitted, this name uses an Irish given name and an Anglicized byname; for an authentic name, the name should be fully Irish. The spelling mac Nechtain is found in 1498 in The Annals of Ulster (found at CELT, <http://www.ucc.ie/celt>). We have changed the name to Padraig mac Nechtain to fulfill his request for authenticity.[Atlantia, Padraig mac Nechtain]

na Féas(o')ige - Mari Elspeth nic Bryan, "Index of Names in Irish Annals: Descriptive Bynames: na Féasóige" [<http://medievalscotland.org/kmo/AnnalsIndex/DescriptiveBynames/naFeasoige.shtml>] defines this byname as meaning "of the bearded" and dates it to 1592 in the name Maol Ruanaidh na Féasóige mac Taidhg Ua Cearbhaill.

Ua - early spelling of the later Ó, the customary Irish clan affiliation particle.

Céileachair - The Annals of the Four Masters dates Dunchadh Ua Céileachair to 1048 [<http://www.ucc.ie/celt/online/G100005B/text015.html>].

We do not believe that combining the late period byname should be a problem. But, we'd appreciate an earlier form, if possible.

12: Randal of Berwick - New Name Change & New Device Change

Per pale vert and azure, three eagles argent

Old Item: Randal Gartnet, to be released.

Old Item: Per pale vert and azure, three hawks displayed argent, to be released.

Submitter desires a masculine name.

No major changes.

Client requests authenticity for 14th century Northumbria.

His original name, Randal Gartnet, and device, Per pale vert and argent, three hawks displayed argent, were registered in August, 2002, via Æthelmearc. Both are to be released.

Randal - Randal is a header form in Witherby; Randolph is dated to 1201 and Randle to 1290.

Berwick - Black, p. 71, under Berwick, cites one John de Berwic, rector of Renfrew, 1295.

Herald of Record: Garnet

13: Randal of Berwick - New Badge

OSCAR is unable to find the name, either registered or submitted.

[Fieldless] a water bouget sable

14: Sigris Burckhart - New Name & New Device

Argent, three roundels sable, a bordure gules

Submitter desires a feminine name.

No major changes.

Sigris - Aryanhwy ferch Catmael (Sarah L. Freidemann) Swedish Feminine Given Names from SMP, cites Sigris Benediktsson to 1382.

Burckhart - Aryanhwy ferch Catmael (Sarah L. Freidemann) German Names from 1495, cites 5 occurrences of Burckhart.

The Ligual Weirdness Table

<http://www.ellipsis.cx/~liana/sca/weirdness\_table.html> shows that German + Swedish is one weirdness.

Herald of Record: Elsbeth Anne Roth

15: Solveig Thronardottir - New Household Name

OSCAR finds the name registered exactly as it appears in November of 1990, via the East.

Accademia Minerva

Her original household name submission, The Fellows and Poor Scholars of Minerva Hall was returned on AE 124. The badge submitted at that time seemed clear and will be re-attached to this name.

Accademia - Italian for "academy, an academic association"

Minerva - Roman goddess of knowledge and learning.

Accademia Minerva - There are several examples of Renaissance Italian learning which combine "accademia" with Classical referents. Scholarly Societies Project <<http://www.lib.uwaterloo.ca/society/1599andearlier.html>> cites the following: Accademia dei Sollevati (Treia, 1430), Accademia Pomponiana (Rome, 1460), Accademia Platonica (Florence, 1460).

17: Willehalm Bärenjäger - New Name

Submitter desires a masculine name.

No major changes.

Client requests authenticity for German, 13th-14th centuries.

Willehalm - Talan Gwynek (Brian M. Scott), Medieval German Given Names from Silesia - Men's Names, <<http://www.s-gabriel.org/names/talan/bahlow/bahlowMasc.html>>, cites this name to 1213.

Bärenjäger - The submitter cites this name as having been registered in April, 2007, out of the West Kingdom (Gunter Bärenjäger). It apparently is intended to mean "Bear Hunter". Sara L. Uckelman (Aryanhwy merch Catmael), German Names from Rottweil, Baden-Württemberg, 1441, <<http://www.ellipsis.cx/~liana/names/german/rottweil1441.html>> cites Ja(e)ger from Juden Ort and Bern. Aryanhwy, in German Names from 1495: Surnames A - F <<http://www.ellipsis.cx/~liana/names/german/surnames1495a-g.html>> also cites Bernhart. Further in German Names from Nürnberg, 1497: Surnames, <<http://www.ellipsis.cx/~liana/names/german/surnamesnurna-m.html>>, Aryanhwy cites Jeger. I cannot find documentation of combining Jäger, Ja(e)ger, Jeger with another surname form. Can anyone provide further documentation of this as a period byname?

Herald of Record: Self/Garnet

This concludes the Æthelmearc Internal Letter of Intent AE125 for March 2, 2010
